

Skunk Odor Remover

Wash your dog as soon as possible to get rid of the skunk smell. First use warm water to wet your dog and then, with rubber gloves and a washcloth, rub the skunk odor remover into the coat. Concentrate on the spots that were directly hit by the skunk spray, and be careful of your dog's eyes, ears, nose and mouth. Leave the skunk odor remover on for 5 – 10 minutes so it can set, rinse thoroughly, and then repeat this process.

Sprayed by a SKUNK?

1 quart Hydrogen peroxide

1/4 cup baking Soda

1 teaspoon Liquid Soap

Later, Rinse, Repeat!

(recipe good For 40 lb. dog)

(It's important not to store this in a closed container since the mixture of these ingredients creates pressure and could burst.) Another thing to keep in mind is the bleaching effect hydrogen peroxide could have on your dog's coat. If this is a concern, try substituting vinegar for the peroxide.

If you do notice that your dog's eyes are red and irritated, try rinsing them out with eye wash. If the redness seems extreme, however, it is best to consult your vet.
